

HCF and the NNFCC would like to announce their joint conference

Power, Process & Policies

building a regional renewables future

9am – 5.30pm, Thursday 16th September 2010
Bishop Burton College, Beverley

The Yorkshire and Humber region is quickly establishing itself as a hub for large scale investment within the renewables sector. This conference will demonstrate the strength and breadth of biorenewable industries within the region, and update you on recent developments.

The morning plenary sessions will introduce new legislation surrounding the power and process industries, look at the sustainability of feedstock supply and the regional business implications for sector growth.

Delegates will then have the chance to attend two out of the three afternoon workshops which will focus on how the morning's themes can be delivered on a regional level. The workshop themes will be Power & Energy, Clean Fuels and Chemicals & Materials.

The whole conference will rejoin for an end of day Q&A session with the chairs from the afternoon's workshops, facilitated by Radio 4's Environmental Correspondent - Tom Heap.

Who should attend?

This conference will be of strong interest to all private and public sector organisations, with an interest in the Yorkshire and Humber Region, which are involved in the biomass, bioenergy and bioprocessing fields.
